The Well-Tempered clAIvier

XVII. Fugue in A-flat major: Fuga, fuggendo la cadenza

Piano (four voices; a fifth, the father, at the end)

Claude / composed for Sam (guest subject: J. S. Bach, BWV 862)

Exposition: four children

Allegretto giocoso (dotted quarter = 58) (♩ = 87)

Alto (second child)

Tenor (third child)

subject (tenor): the first child

answer (alto)

4

S

A

T

B

subject (soprano)

answer (bass): all four children

8

The first cadence, evaded (V - vi)

evasion 1 (V - vi): subject in F minor evasion 2 (V - VI in F minor): subject in D-flat (tenor)

11

The running gag: the bass steps up, faster and faster 14
S A T
B evasion 3 (V - vi): the head in the bass, B-flat minor evasion 4 (V - VI): the head in the bass, G-flat
The dream (E major): the subject in augmentation
the dream: subject in augmentation (E major)
A-flat minor: home, but minor 17
the dream: subject at its own speed under the augmentation evasion 7 ahead: the head in the bass, A-flat minor (home, but minor)
The way home 20
Guest: Bach, BWV 862, at pitch (tenor) 24
evasion 9 (the bass rests): guest, J. S. Bach BWV 862 subject at pitch (tenor)

At home: the trill that will not stop subject (soprano), at home; its re becomes the trill that will not stop 27
S A T
B Trap door: flat VI
All four children: stretto
stretto 4: soprano 30
stretto 2: alto
stretto 3: tenor stretto 1: bass, on the dominant
The father
The hanging seventh; silence 35
over the father: the subject inverted (alto)
P
the father: subject in augmentation, then the bass 5 - 1
The tune gets its do
The first perfect cadence 40
coda: the second half of the subject, and its do at last (teno