The Well-Tempered clAIvier

Fugue XVIII in G-sharp minor, five voices: Vigilate

Keyboard - five voices

Claude / Sam (door subject after J. S. Bach, BWV 61 no. 4)

I. Sero (evening): Phrygian, A

Vigilate: from the evening to the morning (♩ = 104)

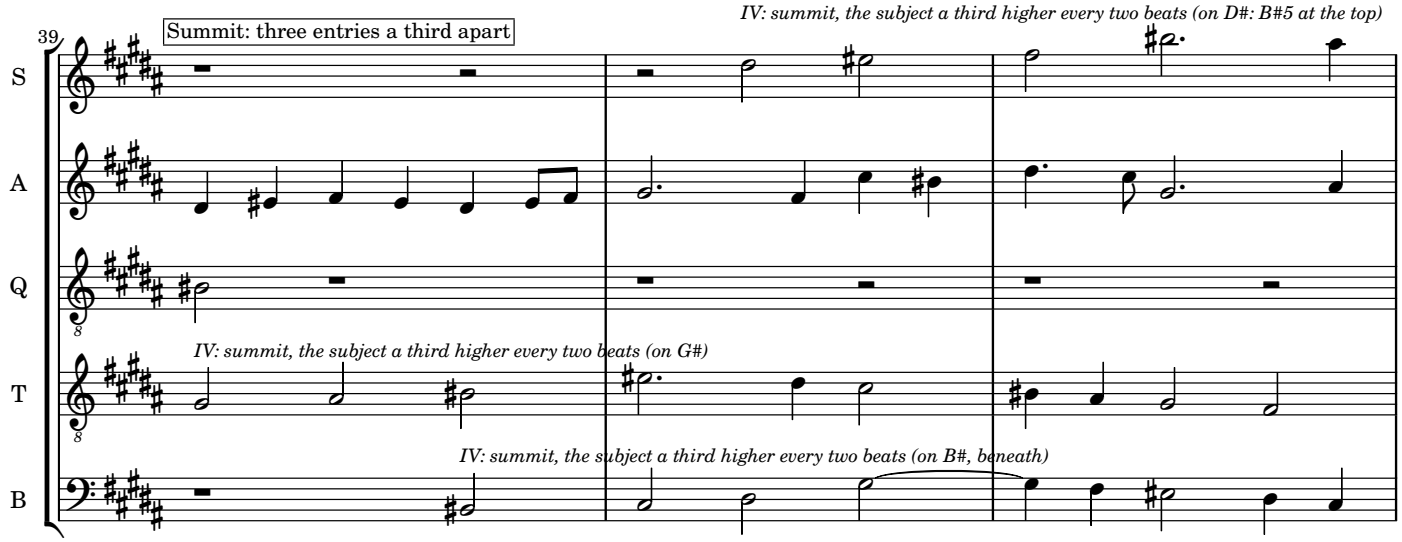

II. Media nocte (midnight): the knock; Aeolian, A#

18
S
A Q
T
B
II: door subject in the soprano, above the subject in the bass
II: door subject on A#, to a half close on D#
II: subject in the bass, under the door subject (parts exchanged)
III. Galli cantu (cockcrow): Dorian, E# 24
rit.
♩ = 94
♩ = 112
III: subject, Dorian (E#): the leap B-E# is the cockcrow
II: door subject on F#, landing on a downbeat: cadence in B major
III. Galli cantu (cockcrow): door subject in the bass 29
III: stretto, the subject two beats later a tenth higher (on B, inside the same scale)
III: door subject above the tenor (parts exchanged)
III: subject in the tenor: the cock crows again (b31.1)

31
S
A Q
T
B
III: door subject on C#, landing on a downbeat: cadence in F-sharp major

IV. Mane (morning): Mixolydian, B# 34
rit.
♩ = 98
♩ = 116
IV: subject, Mixolydian (B#): G-sharp major at b36.3
S
A Q
T
B
IV. Mane (morning): door subject in the tenor

39
Summit: three entries a third apart
IV: summit, the subject a third higher every two beats (on D#: B#5 at the top)
S
A Q
T
B
IV: summit, the subject a third higher every two beats (on G#)
IV: summit, the subject a third higher every two beats (on B#, beneath)

The last knock (D# = E-flat)
42
rit.
rit.
= 102
= 100)
S
A Q
T
B
The last knock: door subject in the fifth voice, an octave above its first knock
Dawn: A-flat major (F## = G)
45
= 88
Dawn: subject, Ionian, in A-flat major, straight out of the door subject
Dawn: stretto, the subject a sixth lower, two beats later 47
rit.
Dawn: the subject in the soprano; its G rises to A-flat (b52.1)
= 58
Dawn: answer in the bass