The Well-Tempered clAIvier

Fugue XVIII in G-sharp minor, five voices: Vigilate

Keyboard - five voices

Claude / Sam (door subject after J. S. Bach, BWV 61 no. 4)

I. Sero (evening): Phrygian, A

Vigilate: from the evening to the morning (♩ = 104)

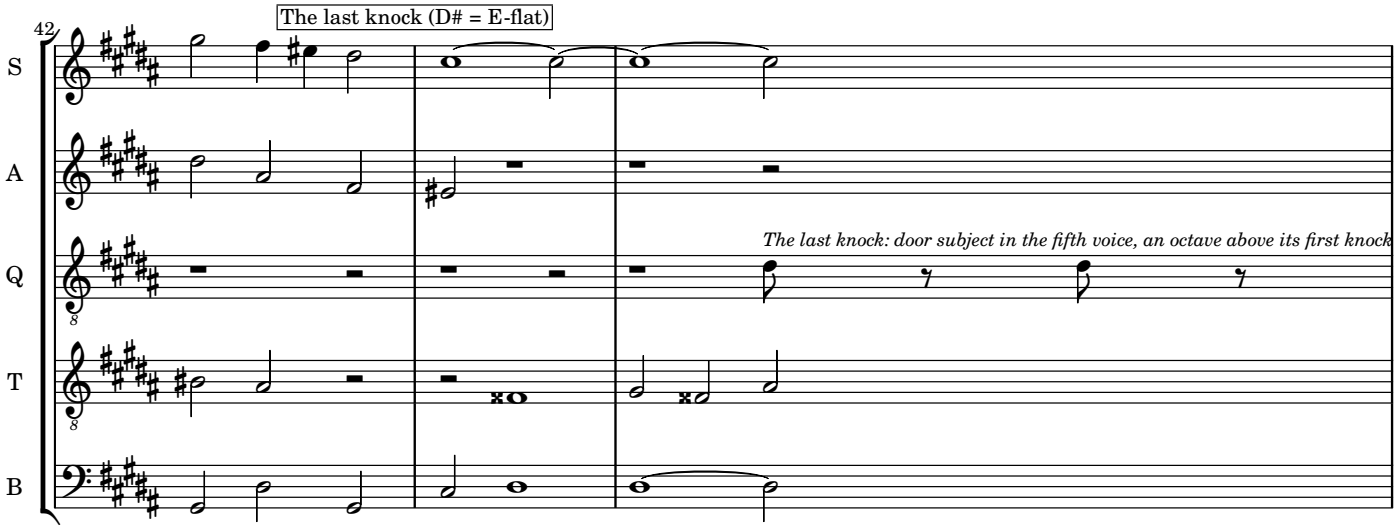

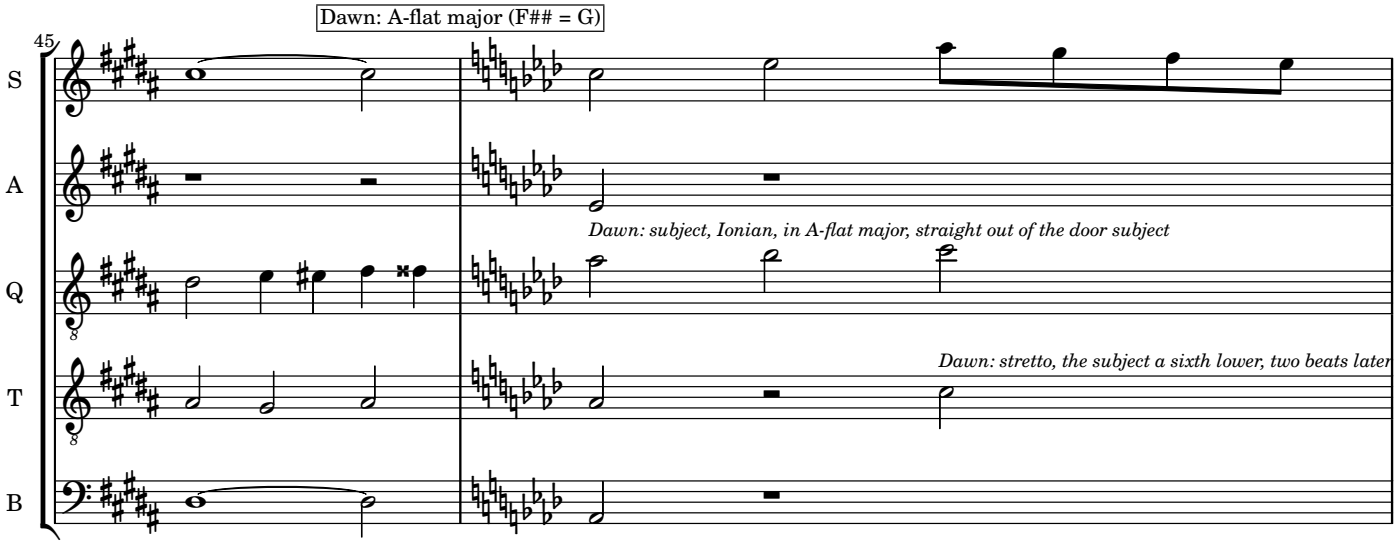

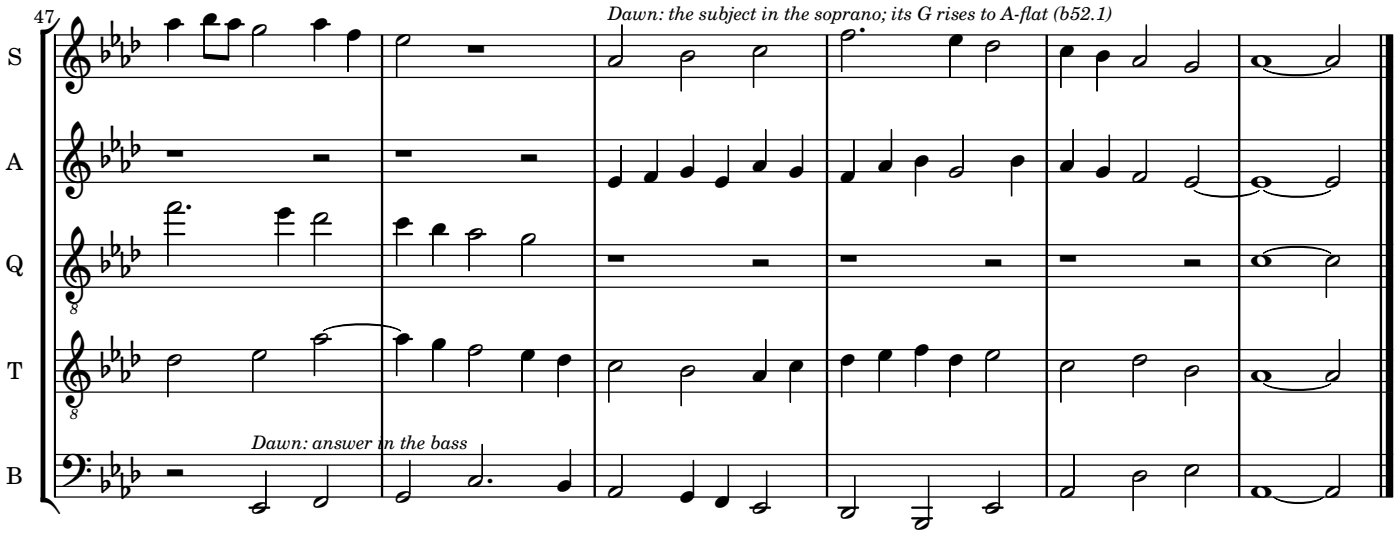

15
II. Media nocte (midnight): the knock; Aeolian, A#
II: subject, Aeolian (A#), over the door subject in tenths
II. Media nocte (midnight): door subject (BWV 61), the fifth voice enters
II: door subject on A#, to a half close on D#
19
II: door subject in the soprano, above the subject in the bass
II: subject in the bass, under the door subject (parts exchanged)
24
III. Galli cantu (cockcrow): Dorian, E#
III: subject, Dorian (E#): the leap B-E# is the cockcrow
II: door subject on F#, landing on a downbeat: cadence in B major
III. Galli cantu (cockcrow): door subject in the bass
S
A
Q
T
B

III: stretto, the subject two beats later a tenth higher (on B, inside the same scale)
29
S
A
Q
T
B
III: door subject above the tenor (parts exchanged)
III: subject in the tenor: the cock crows again (b31.1)
IV. Mane (morning): Mixolydian, B#
IV: subject, Mixolydian (B#): G-sharp major at b36.3
33
III: door subject on C#, landing on a downbeat: cadence in F-sharp major
IV. Mane (morning): door subject in the tenor
Summit: three entries a third apart
IV: summit, the subject a third higher every two beats (on D#: B#5 at the top)
38
IV: summit, the subject a third higher every two beats (on B#)
IV: summit, the subject a third higher every two beats (on G#)

42
The last knock (D# = E-flat)
S
A
Q
T
B
The last knock: door subject in the fifth voice, an octave above its first knock

45
Dawn: A-flat major (F## = G)
S
A
Q
T
B
Dawn: subject, Ionian, in A-flat major, straight out of the door subject
Dawn: stretto, the subject a sixth lower, two beats later

47
S
A
Q
T
B
Dawn: the subject in the soprano; its G rises to A-flat (b52.1)
Dawn: answer in the bass